in this field makes us aware of the generation's life. I have held a survey on the topic of the fast foods consumption among the teenagers. My foundation are presented below.

Methods

The research was held among the students of the State school 1. Chosen social group is representative inasmuch as there was an equal number of contestants from each grade. The questionnaires were given out and it was possible to tick only one option provided. That made the survey results more accurate. The question was the following: "which type of fast foods do you prefer?". The options chosen provided were for the answer were the most popular fast foods types: pizza, hamburgers, hotdogs and sandwiches. The survey was held in 2010 and 2016 in order to monitor changes.

Changes

According to the research, many teenagers have changed their eating habits. At the matter of fact, none of the options in 2016 saved the 2010's percentage. Pizza has lost 8% of admirers, while hamburgers have lost the amount of 28%. In contrast, hotdogs have become 16% more popular and sandwiches have shown a huge rise of 20% in comparison to 2010.

Reasons and future

These changes might take place because of the growing healthy lifestyle propagade, however, hotdogs and which involves pizza and hamburgers.

Reasons

These changes might have taken place as the consequence of growing healthy lifestyle propagade, which involves pizza and hamburger's health denial. Moreover, hotdogs and sandwiches are easily cooked seem much more varied and nutritious than pizza and hamburgers

Future tendencies

It seems possible that sandwiches will gain more popularity because of their convenience and nutrition characteristics.

~~Conclusion~~

Conclusion

To sum up, I would consider that fast foods will never lose their youngsters' admiration. The reason is - specific teenagers' culture with it's protest against the boring elderly lifestyle.
