REPORT ON TEENAGERS' EATING HABITS

Introduction

The purpose of this report is to compare the number of teenagers consuming four different types of fast food in 2010 to this number in 2016. In order to collect the information for this report I carried out a survey. In 2010, as well as this year, I sent out questionnaires to teenagers following my blog from ~~it~~ In both years, (English-speaking) there were 200 interviewees.

Differences between the two years

Two clear tendencies can be observed. One of them appears to be the decline in the number of pizza and hamburgers consumptors, the former having reduced by 7.5%, the latter having fallen from about 36% to less than 20%. The other ~~etc~~ tendency is that by 2016, more young people have started eating hot dogs and sandwiches. Compared to 2010, the number of interviewees being fond of hot dogs became about 5% more in 2016. The most dramatic change, being 20%, is to be seen in the number of teenagers eating sandwiches. This year, this number is 40%, which is 20% more than six years ago.

The reason of the changes

As it appears to me, the globalisation tends to influence lives of teenagers more and more, leaving ~~little~~ time for eating. Apparently, hot dogs and sandwiches are easier to carry and quicker to eat than pizza and hamburgers. This explains their growth in popularity.

Prospects for the future

In future, I believe the two tendencies described above will not disappear, increasing the number of young people eating consuming hot dogs and sandwiches, as the world is being globalised steadily.

Conclusion & Recommendation

In conclusion, it is worth saying that although fast food is unspeakably easy to obtain and eat, teenagers need to be involved in healthy food programmes.

Report on ~~fast food~~ consumption ...

Intro 1

The p of this report is to <sup>compare</sup> ~~outline differences in~~ the numbers of teenagers consuming four diff types of fast food in 2010 ~~to the same~~ and ~~number~~ in 2016. In order to collect the information for this r I carried out a survey. ~~I interviewed 100 teenagers~~ In 2010, I interviewed ~~the same~~ <sup>local</sup> university students who studied at this year, I sent out questionnaires to ~~people studying in different classes~~ <sup>as my elder brother</sup> ~~sophomores, juniors~~ <sup>studying at diff classes.</sup> ~~100 people~~ <sup>100</sup> at my high school. (41)

In 2010, as well as ~~in 20~~ this year, I sent out questionnaires to teenagers following my blog from all over the world. In both years, there were one hundred interviewees. 70 (29)

Alth fast food is very easy to obtain and eat, I believe it is necessary to explain to teenagers healthy food, getting teenagers involved in programmes on this topic. I tend to think that this is crucial to them.
