WRITING

Charity event "Let ~~the~~ Children Study" was held 20th January 2016 in the city hall. The point was, to raise ^{money} for the school by selling traditional Russian things. This was a very important event. In our days, schools have big money problems: chairs are broken, tables are broken and so on. The government does not have enough money to fund every school. So the schools have to take everything in their own hands. We collected enough money to fix the plumbing, bought new tables and chairs and painted the walls, before the school was a mess, but now it actually looks nice. But that's not the best thing, we also funded money to help the sick children in our country. I found this one of the best charitys that the school ever had, not only we fixed, we also helped the charity. I hope we will have this again soon. There ~~was~~ were many opinions, some of them totally shocked me. Some people said that it's a waste of time and that who cares about the school. But others said that this is one of the best ideas, the school had ever had and that the school should do it ~~again~~ again. I personally liked this, it was actually one of the best charities the school had in a while. I am planning to take part in this charity next time, and I would recommend you the same!

TASK 1. LISTENING COMPREHENSION (20 points: 1 answer = 2 points)

For questions 1-10 complete the notes below filling in the gaps with ONE WORD AND/OR A NUMBER.

You will listen to the text ONCE. You have 1 minute to look through the task.

Where I live

Anna was sure that it was the dream home for her family but it turned out to be a (1) nightmare. She used to live in small flats and had no idea what it would be like to have such a big house. Now she can't watch (2) horror films as her imagination starts playing tricks on her. On the other hand, now she can take a lot of old family things out of (3) storage.

Greg thought it would be good to move (4) out of the city centre but, in fact, it was the best location for him and his friend. Apart from shops, there's a cinema, some rather pleasant cafés and a great (5) art centre with a theatre where they show excellent movies. If they moved to the countryside they would (6) miss all that. Sue always talks about how much she would love a big house with a (7) garden but Greg believes she would never be able to justify the (8) expense. A balcony with some (9) pop plants is enough, though Greg admits that in the city centre they are (10) walled in by other buildings on all sides which is not pleasant.

TASK 2. USE OF ENGLISH (10 points: 1 answer = 2 points)

Fill in the gaps with the words from the box. Each word is used only once. You may need to change the word in order for it to fit the context. There are 2 extra words in the box.

What are the Favorite Hang-outs of British Teens?

BE - BECOME - EXTREME - INTEREST - KNOW
PROFESSION - REQUIRE

Nowadays, the youth of this generation 11. becomes more social and active compared to that of the previous generations. Socializing with friends is an inevitable way of life. What's the point of living when one hinders himself or herself from mingling with other people, right?

Below is a list of places where British teens usually hang out for fun and leisure.

1. Recreation Centers. For creative teens or those who want to develop a new hobby, recreation centers offer a wide variety of activities that are 12. extremely appealing. You have a lot of activities to choose from: from summer camps, and art classes to sports activities and more.

2. Shopping centers or malls. Shopping malls are a favorite of almost everyone. Here, teenagers can enjoy shopping for things that they need and window shop for things that they would need in the future.

3. Family-friendly Spas. These types of spas offer education and quality service at the same time. 13. professionals teach teens the appropriate manner of treating growing muscles and tending to issues with self-image.

4. Discotheques. Discotheques 14. known also as "cabarets". Teens can enjoy music and dancing at the same time whilst basking in the ambience of an environment that is mainly geared towards the 70's era. Brace yourself for some retro fun.

5. Home. Sometimes, the home is the best place to chill out and have fun. You can be yourself without any inhibitions, it is low-budgeted, and there are no dress 15. requirements involved. Conversations are not drowned by loud music or noisy atmospheres. There is no place like home for sure!

TASK 3. READING (10 points: 1 answer = 1 point)

Put the following paragraphs in the correct order to recreate the text. Answer sheet 16- 25.

Totally Nice!

By ALAN SMITH

- ~~8.~~ ^{4.} A. "Jeg sagde til min manager, gurgle gurg gurgle teamwork. Han er gurgle gurg old school. Gurg gurgle out of this world."
- ~~3.~~ ^{2.} B. "Danes' articulation of the language has changed dramatically," Lund told The Post. "Each generation has taken part in this transformation process. It is possible to determine the age of a Dane within ten years' precision based on their pronunciation."
- ~~2.~~ ^{4.} C. "It is a sign of helpfulness," said Lund. "And perhaps also an indication that they perceive English as a better language. The Danes have great linguistic inferiority complexes."
- ~~10.~~ ^{8.} D. That Danes mix so many English words into their day-to-day conversations not only catches the ear of non-Danes trying to understand what's being said, it also catches the ire of Danish language purists like Jørn Lund.
- ~~4.~~ ^{6.} E. "It can lead to embarrassing incidents," said Lund. "Danes believe they are better at English than they really are and over the past 50 years have become accustomed to bad English!"
- ^{1.} F. IT'S an experience familiar to many newcomers in Denmark. You're overwhelmed by a language that at the outset appears to be nothing more than gurgles when suddenly you overhear a conversation something like this:
- ~~10.~~ ^{3.} G. Given Danes' warm embrace of English and the Anglo-friendly blending they use in daily conversation, a non-Dane may be tempted to start a conversation in English only to find that, despite the fact that most Danes can speak English, their communication skills still need a lot of improvement:

10. H. Indeed, a study by the University of Copenhagen's LANCHART Centre earlier this year revealed that Danes think their language is ugly and can't understand why anyone would want to learn it. Perhaps it's no wonder then, that Danes are so wild over English words and phrases. Or, to put it another way: "Engelsk er bare totally nice!"

7. I. The Danes' fondness for English, however, goes beyond the inserting of English words and phrases. Just ask any expat who has steeled their nerves to say something in Danish only to have their spirit crushed by a response in English.

5. J. As a member of the Danish Language Centre and the author of several books on the language, Lund has seen Danish change considerably over the course of his thirty-plus year career as a professor and researcher of the language.

TASK 4. WRITING (60 points)

(40 minutes, 200-250 words)

Your school magazine asked you to write a news report on the recent CHARITY event in your town called "Let Children Study" the aim of which was to raise money for building schools in poor villages.

Write your report. Follow the format and the style of report writing.

Follow the plan:

1. Name the date, the place and the event;
2. Describe what people are doing in the picture;
3. Signify the result and importance of this event;
4. Introduce peoples' opinions.
