INTRODUCTION

These days more and more people choose to study abroad. What are the factors driving this behavior? We have conducted a study involving 150 Rochester Degree and Master Degree students in University of Chicago to name 5 major reasons. Our report aims to analyze the data, propose possible explanations and suggest ways to improve the study.

TRENDS AND CAUSES

Having analyzed the survey, we have come to conclude that career prospects has been the most frequently given argument in favor of studying abroad both for Bachelor degree (34%) and Master degree (47%) students. This accounts for the fact that a degree of foreign universities is considered more valuable by employers in general and the study abroad students are more likely to be hired as a result. Just like for Bachelor degree students, language learning prospects have been the second reason for the priority list by the other group, comprising 25% and 18% respectively. Learning additional language has been proven to positively impact one's career prospects and have gained such recognition as a result. Furthermore, better understanding of cultural values and biases have been shown to be equally important (16%) for both groups as this is an important soft skill that helps to establish rapport with colleagues.

Task 2

As the Bard once said, 'All the world's a stage', so what we speak ~~and~~ ^{and} mean are not identical. Yet, can an actor convey both facets of the message: the one on the surface and the one beneath it? In my opinion, this goal can be ~~achieved~~ ^{achieved} not without standing certain ~~obstacles~~ ^{obstacles} on the way.

Firstly, the person heading the board cannot merely utter the lines ~~and~~ ^{and} accomplish the task. As the article ~~states~~ ^{states}, such a method would render the performance 'dull'. According to Hitchcock, unlike film, drama includes the tedious parts, which obviously is not what the spectators wish to see.

Secondly, the actor needs to be ~~aware~~ ^{aware} of the 'Iceberg' theory. The message to convey must be largely hidden from the observer, so there should ~~be~~ ^{be} two lines to pronounce: the ~~gentle~~ ^{gentle} one and the one on paper. The ~~performer~~ ^{performer} ought to personify them.

Taking this point into consideration, ~~speaking~~ ^{speaking} on and beyond the stage is not the same. However, the actors can blur the borders if they learn the 'Iceberg' model of behavior and avoid ~~plain~~ ^{plain} line ~~repetition~~.

~~Introduction~~ INTRODUCTION

Since the process of globalization began, there has been a noticeable shift in the way people receive higher education. For most years, people have to study abroad, who are the reasons drivers such a behavior? Our team conducted a survey among 150 Kolobovskaya and other degree students to note 5 major reasons. Overall, the report aims to analyze our compare data, propose possible explanations and suggest future changes in the trends.

TRENDS AND COURSES

Our analysis of the surveys trends, we have come to conclude that future career prospects is the main argument, where for students it is more popular for Master's degree students (77%) than for Bachelor degree students (73%). This can be explained by the fact that Bachelor degree students have more chance to be hired as a result of further, but also for Bachelor degree students, language learning programs have been placed second on their priority list by Master degree students, compared to 25% and 18% respectively. This is the survey, which shows the reason for the both age groups for the survey was taken proven to position important career and this was chosen as a result of a choice given to Bachelor degree students, better understanding of cultural values and habits as well as increases their own as well as the country (21%) for the entire the difference. It also shows that choice as the contribute to own one's own experience. The survey also helps understand the cultural values and habits, through experiments with similar programs.

Reason for the shift understanding of cultural values and habits is shown to be part of important equal motivation. For example, it can be seen that in the past 16% and 16% respectively. Further, increases motivation on self confidence and more (37%) as the top reason to study abroad by Bachelor degree students, where this year was the most. This helps illustrate the fact that you believe due to the fact that we have more to learn to have independent, which is the all point for no (in contrast), for Bachelor degree students, through experiments results 10% and 10 more
