Task 3.

A FRIEND FROM A DREAM

I woke up in the morning ~~and~~ and found myself in an unfamiliar place with only sand all around. The waves were gently lapping against the shore while the scorching sun was shining with its dazzling rays, and the gulls were crying above me. I turned out to be on an uninhabited island. At least I thought so.

Confused, I stood up and started to ponder over the way to get out of here, but to no avail. I couldn't even grasp how I had got here. I merely remembered that the previous day I <sup>had come</sup> home from work and then immediately turned in. Much to my surprise, someone appeared in front of me. It was a tall heavily-built man with tanned skin. The stranger was wearing unusual clothes - a 'skirt' made of leaves and straw shoes. Unfortunately, my attempts to talk to the man were futile - ~~he~~ <sup>decided to</sup> simply didn't know how to speak. Ultimately, I put off my escape for some time.

In order to find a way back home, I needed to accustom myself to the off-the-grid life on the island. It was only thanks to the stranger's help that I managed to survive. We went fishing and hunted together, helped each other with our chores and played games when we got bored. My new friend and I got on like a house on fire, that's why I ~~felt~~ ~~was~~ was reluctant to leave him here alone...

"Wake up, Jack!", my wife suddenly exclaimed. "Have I been in my bed all this time?", I asked, perplexed. "Of course! Where else could ~~be~~ you have been?" Having realised that my adventure was only a dream, I sighed and headed for the bathroom.

Task 2.

УЧЕБНИК 2

The topic of the text 'Realism' obtained from the website Wikipedia is the history of realism and its key ideas. The realistic art movement originated in France in the nineteenth century and advocated illustrating down-to-earth situations as well as the gritty reality of life, which was completely different from the features of Romanticism. ~~The~~ Realists depicted people of all social statuses similarly and used dark hues in order to disregard ~~idealization~~ idealization. Realism aroused debate ~~by~~ ~~because~~ by criticizing the upper classes and shedding light on the new values brought about by the Industrial revolution. ~~Headed by~~ In France the <sup>Realistic</sup> art movement was headed by Gustave Courbet. Apart from this, there was also a Russian realistic movement the Peredvizhniki, which included such artists as Ivan Kramskoy, Ilya Repin and others. All in all, I deem it necessary to highlight the significance of realism to our society because realism helped people take off their rose-coloured glasses and start to see the world around them ~~the way it is~~ in a realistic way, not the idealized one.

Task 2: 35

Task 1.

- ① For what reasons did <sup>the</sup> Realists refuse to accept Romanticism?
- ② Was realism <sup>distributed</sup> influential only within ~~the~~ France?
- ③ Why did the realistic movement cause controversy?
- ④ Did the realists <sup>depict</sup> treat people of different social classes the same way?
- ⑤ What does social realism focus on?

① I heard the sound of waves ~~the only~~

Everything I heard was the sound of waves gently lapping against the shore, and the sun, the atmosphere, I turned out to be confused. It turned out I was alone on an uninhabited island. At least I thought I was so.

② Confused, I stood up and tried to make up ~~put my finger on~~ and started to intensely think of the way to get out of here but to no avail. My head I felt dizzy and couldn't put my finger on how I even got there. Only yesterday I remembered coming home from work the previous day, kissing my wife giving my wife a peck on the cheek and then turning in immediately because of extreme tiredness. Suddenly, someone appeared and broke my train of thoughts. It was a tall heavily-built man with tanned skin. He was wearing unusual clothes - a skirt made of leaves and (straw).

② At the same time, he had brown eyes full of sincerity and goodwill. His gaze was full of sincerity and goodwill, which made him seem to be an easy going and approachable person. Strange as it may seem, it proved to be true later. 152

③ The stranger, whom I deemed a native, was wearing unusual clothes - a 'skirt' made of leaves and (straw) shoes. "I'm sorry, can you please help me?" "Excuse me, do you happen to know how I can get out of here?" I started. Unfortunately, all my attempts to speak to the man were futile - he simply didn't know how to speak, and could only produce a few sounds. I decided

~~In the end~~, I threw in the towel ~~and~~ put off the ~~idea~~ of away?
