Task 4.

In the modern world, the topic of workplace management and productivity has sparked a lot of debate. The two texts delve into the phenomenon of the four-day workweek, a way to allegedly improve employee efficiency.

To start with, what are the advantages of the shorter workweek? According to the first text, it increases productivity, improves employees' mental health, brings higher staff retention, among other things. This is all achieved just by giving workers an entire extra day off. However, the idea also has plenty of disadvantages. One of them, as stipulated in text №2, is the fact that not all industries can adopt the new schedule. For example, healthcare and retail professionals need to be available round-the-clock, therefore they cannot do their work in a lesser amount of time. Also, some businesses report that employees feel even more stress because of struggling to complete their tasks under the new regime. Nevertheless, both texts state that if workflows are reimagined and operations are reassessed, the four-day workweek can be quite helpful. I think that if implemented correctly, the new schedule offers many improvements and possibilities. But it is nonetheless vital to remember that this idea cannot be applied universally, which is why every case needs to be considered individually.

In conclusion, the four-day workweek has both advantages and disadvantages, so it is important to take great care in implementing it.

Task 5.

What If Social Media Didn't Exist?

Imagine a situation: one day, you try to get on TikTok to distract yourself from doing the ~~assign~~ assignment that's due tomorrow (we've all been there). But when you click on the icon, nothing happens! In fact, it straight up disappears from your phone — along with all of the other platforms. What happens now?

The Friends

On your social media account, you had about a ~~dozen~~ ^{hundred} or two

K1 14
K2 8
K3 4
K4 3
TB-4: 29

~~of~~ "Friends." But now you quickly find out that you actually only have ~~a dozen~~ about a dozen. They're the ones whose home addresses you remember — so you decide to send them some letters. You'll have to ~~write~~ ^{brush} ~~tear~~ up on letter etiquette, because that's — ~~as to from~~ ~~meeting in person~~ ^{and sets} the only form of ^{non-spoken} communication left. The focus of your conversations has to shift from all the trendy stuff (there are no more viral videos or cool new indie artists) to ^{day-to-day} ~~maintain~~ life and ~~the~~ other forms of art.

The Entertainment

We spend ~~lots~~ so much time on our phones that many of us have barely any left on other ~~things~~ forms of entertainment like books or movies. ~~Magazines~~ Now, however, everyone and ~~your~~ ^{their} neighbor is an avid reader and ~~even~~ movie-watcher. ~~Magazines become a thing again, and everything else entertainment-wise also changes, in one way or the other since it all used to be connected with social media.~~

The ~~Big~~ Businesses

There's a chance some of your ~~favorite~~ favorite places around the city have had to close ~~since~~ since there are no more influencers to promote them to new people. All the brands have moved their advertisements offline — now your way to work is surrounded by billboards and posters, even more than before.

That's just the tip of the iceberg, honestly! ~~Social media is a huge part of our lives, and if it disappeared, the world would change a lot.~~ If you have any ideas on how you'd manage ⁱⁿ a world like this, let me know in the comments!

$$10 + 7 + 20 = 37 - 15 = 5$$

$$05: 10 + 9 + 5 + 29 + 37 = 90$$
