22. B. Text 2: "Many businesses fear that reducing hours will lower productivity"
23. C. Text 1: "Not all businesses can implement a four-day schedule easily", Text 2: "Some industries, ... struggle to adapt to a condensed schedule."
24. A. Text 1: "Furthermore, companies adopting this model often see reduced absenteeism and higher staff retention"
25. A. Text 1: "Additionally, a shorter workweek improves mental health and work-life balance"
26. C. Text 1: "However, it's not all sunshine and roses", Text 2: "While the four-day workweek offers promising benefits, it also presents challenges."
27. B. Text 2: "For instance, health care, retail, and customer service often require continuous coverage, making shorter weeks difficult to implement."
28. C. Text 1: "The four-day workweek has gained significant attention as companies experiment with reducing working hours", Text 2: "despite these concerns, pilot programmes in multiple companies..."
29. B. Text 2: "Moreover, employees in some companies report feeling increased pressure to complete the same workload in a fewer days."
30. C. Text 1: "The challenge lies in finding the balance between efficiency and reduced hours", Text 2: "success depends on rethinking work flow."

Task 4

The four-day workweek has been a topic of many discussions these days. Many companies are starting to implement this schedule, while others are not taking the risk. This essay will focus on reviewing the points stated in the both texts given in the task and giving my opinion on this topic.

The first text shows a generally positive view on the idea of a four-day workweek. It states that a condensed schedule has a positive impact on the mental health and motivation. However, it also presents the negative sides of this idea, such as the unavailability of a shortened schedule for some businesses. The second text, on the other hand, mainly focuses on negative sides of this topic, talking about the industries that require constant service. It states the disadvantages, such as increased pressure, uncoordinated schedule and other difficulties. Both texts show the good and the bad sides of this idea. However, the first one is presented as more positive than the second one. Personally, I believe that a four-day workweek would be a great improvement of the worklife. If it is done correctly, there should be no problem in this amount of working hours.

In conclusion, shortened workweek could be more efficient than the normal one, but only if done right.

Урок 3

Task 5

I have a social media addiction

It's hard to admit, but it's true. Every morning the first thing I do after waking up is checking my phone, when I'm bored I immediately go on social media, and I can't live a day offline. Unfortunately, this is the sad reality for many people these days.

Is it inherently bad?

On one hand, it is definitely not good for our intellect, attention span and mental health. On the other hand, it's the only way for me and thousands of other teens to stay social. If Internet didn't exist I wouldn't have found a community of, for example, Lily Chou-Chou fans. Internet helps people with niche interests connect with each other and even make friends.

The downsides

As for me, I am not encouraged to be social. I don't have to make connections in real life and I don't have to adapt to the people around me. Why would I waste my time talking to someone in real life when there are so many people with the same interests as me online? This really affects our social skills and the ability to make friends.

What if social media didn't exist?

Honestly, I think that if it suddenly disappeared I would've felt lonely and miserable for some time. I'm too used to it at this point. However, I think that humans can adapt to anything, so I would have to burst my bubble and start talking to real people eventually.

What do you think? Feel free to share your opinion with me
