Task 6. ТБ 5:10

As I am currently applying for the "Young Innovators" grant competition, I would like to propose launching the "Safe-straws" company. My friends and I have come up with the concept of a "Safe-straw" and tested several prototypes recently. The results of our work have been outstanding so far, therefore I am confident that our company will be a strong contender in the competition.

Our aim is to sell portable water filter that look and function like drinking straws. Through a combination of several filtering mechanisms inside, they will purify water and make it safe to drink. Obviously, we will mainly target customers in developing countries, particularly those that do not have access to clean drinking water.

Therefore, our product will solve the problem of water-borne diseases all around the globe. The "Safe-straw" will fix the issues that arise from a lack of clean water sources, such as illnesses and infections.

Furthermore, the "Safe-straws" company will operate on a global scale, as there are multiple countries in the world that ~~struggle~~ suffer from the problems I have mentioned.

Undoubtedly, advertising will present a challenge, because many people in developing countries do not have cable television or have access to the Internet, so we will promote the water filters mainly through flyers and printed ads.

In conclusion, if we end up winning the competition, our company will be able to combat the spread of disease in developing nations and aid those who do not have sources of safe drinking water where they live. Our slogan - "saving lives through a straw" - reflects our commitment to our cause, and the aforementioned benefits are the reason why I believe that our company should be chosen as one of the winners in the "Young Innovators" competition.
