Have you ever faced a challenge of preparing for an English test? If you have, then try to ~~imagining~~ imagine how ~~hard~~ ^{difficult} ~~working~~ it was for me to prepare for a whole Olympiad. After ~~str~~ struggling to win one for a few years, my dream finally came true. In this post, I want to share some tips on winning this competition for my fellow English learners.

Never procrastinate

Postponing your preparatory sessions might seem appealing, but you will most certainly regret it. ~~By~~ Procrastinating, you lose your precious time to study. For those who think they can treat an Olympiad like a typical exam: I ~~must~~ ^{must} warn: an Olympiad has nothing in common with an exam. It is a competition where students have no clue on what they will get, so you can't expect anything.

Treat your goal correctly

Don't see an Olympiad as a free way to get rewards. Instead, you should be motivated by widening the range of your knowledge whilst preparing.

Triumphing this competition means you were persistent enough to achieve your goal, and never put off your studying.

Always keep going

Losing means experience. Never feel blue about it.

You tried an Olympiad for yourself and can conclude what needs improvement.

To sum up, determination is the key to pursue this dream. *
