TASK 4

STUDYING IN RUSSIA BRINGS NEW OPPORTUNITIES

By Marion Mercier

For 'Education Today', the school magazine

PARIS, France

The survey was conducted by a group of students who study at Lycee Lacordaire School of France. Collected data is based on answers given by one thousand students of European, Asian and US schools who would like to enroll at Russian Universities.

Introduction

The aim of this news report is to do some fascinating research into modern trends of receiving education by foreign students and figure out their top priorities of studying in Russia.

The main changes and trends

To get a comprehensive University education is ten percent more important for the students of European and US schools. The percentage of students of Asian schools who would like to get a double degree is three times as much as the percentage of European and US students. Moreover, Asian students value a wide range of educational programmes more, while this issue comes third, according to European and US students' opinions. Additionally, European students tend to appreciate an opportunity to get scholarships more than Asian students.

The possible reasons for these changes

As far as I am concerned, the result of this survey among students of European, Asian and US schools fully depends on their attitude to studying, traditions, and the desire to work in Europe. Furthermore, Asian countries are usually poor. Therefore, scholarships are essential for the students. In general, children from Europe are more eager to get high education in another country.

Future changes

The chances are that the situation will rapidly change in the future. In all probability, children from Asian countries will study more in other countries in order to get decent education and improve the economic situation in their countries.

Conclusion

Interest in foreign education in future will increase.
